Captalu Dumbell had been told by a native hunter that the lion was in the habit of eating porcupines. And this has been confirmed by two Eaglish sportsmen. V. Kirby, for exampla, has taken a porcupine's head from the stomach of a lioness. Others relate that it is not uucommou to find llons with porcupine quiils sticking ail over their noses, faces and paws. It seems to argue some indifference to pain on the part of the lion, as well as a fancy for porcupiue's flesh. Compare this with the case of the into conference, who in turn handed camel, which a distinguished traveler the late director an envelope.
